DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME BEGINS SUNDAY, MARCH 10

Even though the clock will read one hour earlier, remember that your child's body clock will take a while to adjust. Expect getting up in the morning, etc., to take a bit longer and they may be a bit crankier until they adjust to the change.

EXTRA CLOTHES

It's time to check your child's extra supply of clothes to make sure that they are weather-appropriate and still fit. It also helps if they have two pair of extra underwear. We have a hard time keeping enough spare pairs on hand and the kids get embarrassed if they don't have the right size (or right gender!) underwear to change into in case of an accident. If your child's extras aren't in their cubby, ask the teacher. Some have put their supply of extras in a cabinet, but they'll be glad to get them for you.
